DETAILED ACTION

R sponse to Amendment

1. The amendments filed 24 June 2003 (Paper No. 8) has been entered.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

3. Applicant's arguments filed 24 June 2003 (Paper No. 8) have been fully considered but they are not found persuasive.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed 15 March 2002 (Paper No. 4) contains reference #AT13 which is a search report. Applicants argue that the search report was not in the PCT patent publication. The search report has been considered and the page containing the reference in the previous form 1449 has been amended to include the examiner's initial and attached to the office action. The search report will not be published because it is not a reference. Applicant is advised that the date of any resubmission of any item of information contained in this information disclosure statement or the submission of any missing element(s) will be the date of submission for purposes of determining compliance with the requirements based on the time of filing the statement, including all certification requirements for statements under 37 CFR 1.97(e).

See MPEP (609 (C(1)).

Claim R j ctions - 35 USC § 101

5. Claims 21-42 remains rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well established utility.

The reason for the rejection has been set forth in the previous office action.

Applicants argue that TIF2 functions as a nuclear receptor transcriptional mediator. However, there is no nexus between the TIF-2 and any diseases or diagnostic uses and thus the protein lacks well established utility. The specification on page 6 discloses the use of the TIF-2 to understand the mechanism underlying the model for nuclear receptor modulations. However, the study of models lacks substantial utility because further research to identify or reasonably confirm a "real world" context of use is required to create a nexus to a disease. The polypeptide lacks substantial utility because further research to identify or reasonably confirm a "real world" context of use is required. Thus, the asserted utility lacks substantial and specific utility because further research to identify or reasonably confirm a "real world" context of use is required. Brenner V. Manson 383 U.S. 519, 535-536, 148 USPQ 689, 696 (1966) stated that "Congress intended that no patents be granted on an chemical compound whose sole "utility" consists of its potential role as an object of use-testing ... a patent is not a hunting license." Brenner further states that "It is not a reward for the search, but compensation for its successful conclusion."

Claims 21-42 remains also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Specifically, since the claimed invention is not supported by either a substantial asserted utility or a well established utility for the reasons set forth above, one skilled in the art clearly would not know how to use the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. Claims 21, 36, and 37-42 remains rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. This is a written description rejection.

The reason for the rejection has been set forth in the previous office action.

Newly amended claims recite the generic functional limitation "TIF2 protein activity." However, the essential feature of the invention is the specific TIF-2 with specific amino acid sequence. "TIF2 protein activity" encompasses generic such general function as ionic changes of the protein due to pH change in the buffer. University of California v. Eli Lilly and Co. (CAFC) 43 USPQ2d 1398 held that a generic claim to human or mammalian when only the rat protein sequence was disclosed did not have written description in the specification. Thus, the specification does not have written description for the genus of TIF-2 with general functional limitation. It is suggested that the functional limitation include function of interaction with nuclear receptors with support in the specification which does not introduce new matter.

7. No claims are allowed.

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37. CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
